The impact of inflation on the economy and supply chain disruptions are something we are all feeling in our daily lives. Home rebuilding costs in particular are rising faster than we've seen in decades. From lumber to labor, from shingles to sheetrock, as prices go up, the cost of rebuilding and repairing your home needs to be reflected in your insurance policy.

Your policy renewal included in this packet has been adjusted to reflect these rising reconstruction costs and to ensure that you have the appropriate coverage amount necessary to rebuild your home in the event of a catastrophic loss.

How does inflation and rising construction costs affect my insurance policy?

When the cost of building materials and the laborers needed to make repairs go up, you risk not having enough coverage to rebuild your home to its current condition. Rising costs for things like lumber, roofing material, and drywall could leave you underinsured. We've adjusted the coverage amount for your home to help keep pace with these current inflationary trends.

(Source: Verisk Residential Replacement Cost Index 2Q2022)

I've read that there are shortages of some materials, and even of workers to come make repairs. How does that affect me?

When materials and workers are scarce, it will take more time to complete the repairs that are necessary to rebuild or repair your home. As those delays have gotten longer, the costs for alternative living arrangements go up too. Our inflation adjustment of the coverage for your home will automatically provide you with more coverage for temporary housing as well.

(Source: Home Builders Institute June 2022 Labor Market Report)

What can I do to help manage my insurance costs?

- If you have questions about the cost of your insurance and the amount of coverage provided by your TPC policy, the best resource is your independent insurance agent. A few minutes can go a long way to ease any worries about your coverage limits and the costs associated with properly protecting your home.
- Are you receiving all of the discounts that are available to you? Did you know that you can get a discount if your automobile coverage is written by the same agent as your home policy, even though it's not written by TPC? We've taken bundling to a whole new level! Why not talk to your agent about your auto coverage to make sure you qualify for a TPC discount? We also have a host of discounts for things like smoke detectors, deductibles, and even one for paperless policy delivery. Your agent is well versed on all of our discounts, so be sure to ask them to help maximize your savings by having the right coverage at the best available cost.
